Started in 1970 by Governor Docking, the Kansas PRIDE program has supported volunteer-based improvement efforts in more than 400 Kansas communities. Fifty years later with our partners and sponsors we continue to provide technical, educational, recognition, and financial assistance to those organized to make a difference locally — assisting Kansas communities to be great places to visit, do business in, and live.

“It is so exciting for me being in my 5th year as a board member and having the honor to serve as board chair for Kansas Pride, Inc. Kansas Pride Inc. and partners provide recognition, education, and funding opportunities to assist local communities, regardless of size, through grassroots efforts. These efforts, along with economic development initiatives, support Kansans in shaping their communities as the place they want to live their lives.”

James Lambert, Kansas PRIDE, Inc. Chair

PARTNERSHIPS

As a partner of the Kansas PRIDE program, the Kansas Masons, from more than 200 lodges across the state, have pledged their support to local communities. Since the partnership was established in March of 2016, Masonic Lodges have continued, or provided new, active support in more than 20 communities. Their efforts include assisting with fundraising, providing knowledge and volunteers, and celebrating local community success. If your community does not have a Masonic Lodge, contact the Kansas PRIDE office to find a contact.

Since 2017, through our partnership with the Kansas Masons, more than $178,000 has been awarded to Kansas PRIDE communities for large-scale projects and community promotion.

K-State Research and Extension continued to partner with the Dane G. Hansen Foundation to implement the Community Intern, First Impressions, Ripple Effects Mapping, and County Leadership programs. In 2019 there were 18 interns across northwest Kansas. Fourteen served in community positions and four served in multi-county positions. Ten communities participated in First Impressions, two of which were PRIDE communities; three counties participated in Ripple Effects Mapping, two of which had PRIDE committees; and two counties continued leadership programs and have PRIDE communities.

On the cover: Elliot (9), Parker (6), and 14 other young people from our local library kids’ program volunteered to pick up trash during our Toronto Community Clean Up day. They joined a large group of adults who spent the day cleaning and painting on Main Street. These girls proudly filled their wheelbarrow three times! Toronto PRIDE

K-STATE RESEARCH AND EXTENSION

The Community Vitality staff have visited more than 100 communities to lend support through strategic planning, informational presentations, and workshops. The First Impressions program, administered by K-State Research and Extension, helps communities learn more about strengths and weaknesses through the eyes of a first-time visitor. It also provides an opportunity to learn about the strength and weaknesses of other communities. The immediate effects of First Impressions are the call to action and engagement of community volunteers; the development of improved communication between residents and community organizations; and the increased awareness of community attributes. Since 2015, more than 110 Kansas communities have participated in First Impressions. Youth Community Perceptions, a new program started in 2019, has given communities the opportunity to engage youth in community assessment, service, and government processes. The program, designed for local youth group or school district participation, has resulted in community partnerships, funding opportunities, and beneficial improvement projects — all involving and engaging youth. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

As a partner of the Kansas PRIDE program, the Kansas Department of Commerce’s Business and Community Development Assistance Team worked with communities and businesses throughout the state. During 2019, the regional project managers made 45 visits to PRIDE communities and made program presentations to 11 communities.

PERRY

Perry recently celebrated their 11th year of bringing back their fall festival. The annual Perry Fall Festival is something residents and visitors of all ages enjoy and is a major spotlight for the town.

The festival has grown to include a car show, garden tractor pull, food and craft vendors, live music, and information booths. Attendees enjoy free amusements and rides thanks to generous sponsors.

The City of Perry was also instrumental by providing their support and city services. What a great day for the community to come together and focus on Perry!

In 2018 Perry was chosen as the only stop in Kansas for the Capitol Christmas Tree in its trek from Oregon to Washington, D.C. Perry PRIDE coordinated this effort between local, state and national agencies and organizations. More than 1,000 people visited Perry for this once-in-a-lifetime event for the community.

CANEY

The community of Caney lost its essential food pantry and was without it for several months.

Caney’s PRIDE program, the Caney Betterment Group, was approached by the city to take over the project. Volunteers from the group worked to get the food pantry operational again. Fifty-two volunteers contributed more than 12,000 hours, along with the help of community and area sponsors to bring the program back.

The pantry not only serves Caney, but also the area of southwest Montgomery and southeast Chatauqua counties, offering monthly food boxes for the elderly and disabled, emergency food boxes for those in sudden distress, angel tree boxes at Christmas, school produce backpacks, distribution of excess produce, and had experienced a service outreach to approximately 1,400 in 2019.

LECOMPTON

When Lecompton PRIDE formed and established its vision and mission through a public meeting in 2012, they realized the central focus of the community was to maintain and preserve the historic Lecompton High School building owned by the city.

Lecompton PRIDE was given the opportunity to raise money to support ongoing building maintenance by developing fundraisers and applying for grants. The community bought in to project and improvements began.

The auditorium was renovated, a new roof installed along with a new boiler and air conditioners. Community meetings, plays, rummage sales, and dance classes all found a home in the building thanks to community support.

Local sponsors, along with Lecompton PRIDE, have helped to turn the old high school into a community center, now known as the PRIDE Building.
Thank you to our sponsors who make educational and funding opportunities possible.

ROSSVILLE

The City of Rossville had begun a Main Street beautification project that included new sidewalks, street lights, and improved crosswalks. Rossville PRIDE conducted a survey that found residents desired a gathering place downtown that welcomed people and allowed for gatherings.

The city received a donation of land from the Andrick family in memory of their son, Terry. Rossville PRIDE successfully wrote for a grant through the Kansas PRIDE program to landscape the new Andrick Park.

The landscaping is easy to maintain and drought resistant, and combined with the well-planned sidewalks and infrastructure, creates a place for picnics, live music and lemonade stands.

An Oregon/California Trail marker has also been placed in the park and is part of the National Parks historical markers. Rossville PRIDE was able to develop this landscape project to meet the needs of the city in balance with the community’s ideas.

WILSON

Community promotion is one of the key project areas Wilson PRIDE is involved with. Wilson PRIDE partnered with local businesses, residents, and Midwest Energy to install a “Welcome to Wilson” sign on the southern entrance of town, spearheading organization and fundraising efforts.

Signage identifying Wilson as the “Home of John H. Kuck – 1928 Olympic Gold Medalist” was also erected. Purchased by Wilson PRIDE, the sign was placed on K-232 inside the city limits.

Telling the world about Wilson took a turn to the digital world when Wilson PRIDE decided the community needed a new website. The new site (wilsonks.com) was created as a joint Wilson PRIDE/Wilson Economic Development Corporation website, providing valuable information to visitors about Wilson and the surrounding area. The development of the site used funding from the Kansas Masons, Kansas PRIDE, and the Case Foundation.
